SAID IN FUN.

The oyster, like a good many other people of fashionable pretensions, is in the swim during the summer, only to find himself in the soup when winter comes.—Boston Transcript.

"How's things?" asked the tailor. "On the mend," said the tailor. "How is it with you?" "Only sew-sew,"—Harper's Bazar.

A Chicago literary club recently debated the question, "Was the inventor of the Barbed Wire Fence a Barbarian?" It is said to say that everybody took sides and nobody got on the fence.—St. Paul Globe.

"Oh, mamma, mamma," yelled Tommy as a great gust of wind blew some sand in his eye, "come quick, I've got a piece of beach in my eye."—Harper's Young People.

It has been estimated that it would take a man 3,000 years to read all the standard works. And yet you will scarcely find a man in society who will own up that he has not read them every one.—Boston Transcript.

Many a young man who works hard during the day allows his hands to go to waste during the evening.—Texas Sittings.

The cow sets an admirable example—she never blows her own horn.—Yonkers Statesman.

Husband—My dear, there's a burglar in the room. I have no revolver. Wife—Then look daggers at him.—Kate Field's Washington.

When a grain field has got about all it can hold it is ready for some mow.—Texas Sittings.

"There's one thing I don't understand," said little Harry—"that's why good tasting things like pie make me sick, while bad tasting things like medicine make me well. It ought to be the other way."—Harper's Young People.

Mamma (aged six)—Mamma, was Mr. Gourmand born with a silver spoon in his mouth? Mamma—I guess so, dear, and maybe with a knife and fork too.—Jewellers Weekly.

Mars has two moons. When one has been reduced to its last quarter the other is full.—New Orleans Picayune.

"What are you doing?" asked the convict of the reporter who was writing up the penitentiary. "I'm taking notes." "Humph! That's what brought me here."—Washington Star.

When the opportunity of a man's life presents itself he usually waits for an introduction.—Texas Sittings.

It is rather strange that the northern coast of this continent should be so cold, considering the number of capes it has on.—Harper's Bazar.

She is she your summer resort girl? He (laughingly)—No; she is my last resort girl.—New York Herald.

"The physician," says Brown, "is the man who tells you that you need change and then takes all you have."—Drake's Magazine.

Paris Fashions.

So far this season's goods show a smooth surface in preference to the ribbed one of the last two seasons, though there will still be seen some few instances in cote de cheval and toile du nord. But all the crepe and crepon weaves will be, if anything, more popular than ever in soft finished wool. Stripes from hairline up to those four inches wide are seen in goods of the best qualities, though the stripes are usually indistinct and in soft tones.

LATEST PARIS GOWNS.

One lovely example is of camel's hair, with stripes of wool color and moss green. There is one narrow stripe of green, one of wool and a wider one between in which the two colors mingle, so that the effect is indescribably soft and pleasing. Green enters largely into all costumes. Green "billiard cloth" costumes will be very chic, and have jackets, snug fitting, with cuffs and collars and deep pocket flaps of velvet in the same shade or very nearly the same, or black.

A very stylish gown for the promenade for a young lady was of hairline stripes, black and green. Around the bottom were three rows of fine satinettes braid, placed far apart. The skirt cleared the ground all around. The corset was round, with good embroidered leather belt and band trimming. The gown opened on the left side under the trimming, and a glimpse of Havana velvet finished it. A paragon of iridescent green and rose satin with baguette stripes. Shimmering velvet hat with large green bows.

Another handsome costume for carriage or visiting was of olive green camel's hair and black astrakhan garment, princess shape back and draped front, a tiny bonnet of black and bronze and a parasol covered with cream Spanish lace.

Suede and undressed kid two button gloves in tan, pearl and black will be the favorites this season for outdoor wear.

For full dress tan and pearl long gloves will be worn. Very rarely those in any other color, though a few black ones will be seen.

"A Catchy Ad."

A REMARKABLE WOMAN.

Miss Knapp Has Been Horse Reporter, Novelist and Country Editor.

In these days, when so many vocations are open to women, it is such a common thing to see them engaged in active life as lawyers, doctors, real estate or insurance agents that it excites neither comment nor surprise. Still, a woman whose business is horse and cattle reporting, and who, moreover, is a fine judge of the former animal, is a decided novelty.

Yet it is in this particular field that Miss Adeline E. Knapp has won considerable distinction for herself. She is on the staff of the San Francisco Call, and under the nom de plume of Miss Russell contributes every Sunday an article on the subject of horses or cattle. These articles, especially those on riding and driving, have attracted a great deal of attention and have been widely copied.

She has for years read and studied more or less about horses, and is a good horsewoman and skillful driver.

By the ranchmen of California she is acknowledged to be well versed in these subjects, and they have a great respect for her opinion. From time to time she has visited and written about the various cattle ranches in the state, and this summer spent her ten days' vacation in the saddle, climbing hills, fording streams and frequently sleeping in the open air. When on such excursions Miss Knapp uses a small English riding saddle and rides astride, as she finds such a saddle and such a position much less fatiguing than those ordinarily adopted by women. Her dress on these occasions consists of a blouse waist, riding trousers and a long skirt which falls in full folds each side of the saddle and just covers the feet.

A little boy of Mrs. McDonald's, living near here, fell against a red hot stove and was fearfully burned. The pain was terrible, and it was thought the burn was so severe as to scar the child for life. I sold the lady a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which, after greasing the sore, she applied. It soon removed all the fire and eased the pain, and in ten days the boy was well, no trace of the scar remaining.—J. D. McLean, Keyport, Clinton county, Ill. For sale by F. J. Wurzburg, druggist, No. 38 Monroe street.

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that cured her of croup, and in turn administered it to her own offspring and always with the best results. For sale by F. J. Wurzburg, druggist, No. 38 Monroe street.

Very Much Surprised. I have been afflicted with neuralgia for nearly two years, have tried physicians and all known remedies, but found no permanent relief until I tried a bottle of Dullman's Great German Liniment and it gave me instant and permanent relief. 25 cents per bottle. Signed, A. B. Smedley, Hamilton, Mich., April 11, 1901. For sale at D. C. Scribner's drug store.

At one time she learned to set type—a most useful accomplishment, as she discovered when her foreman took French leave in the middle of the week and she found herself left with the assistance of only a fourteen-year-old boy. But she got out the paper that week and many other weeks, and obtained a practical insight into the working and managing of a newspaper that has been of incalculable service to her since. At the end of a year and a half she consolidated her paper with the Oakland Daily Tribune. After a few months, however, Miss Knapp returned to The Call as coast and foreign exchange editor, which position she held until the management, discovering her abilities and her knowledge concerning stock, transferred her to that department.

Her range of subjects is a wide one, for over her own name she writes a story every Sunday for The Call, in addition to an article on stock, and though the double work is kept up week after week there is no perceptible falling off in either line of style, variety or interest.

In the lives and interests of working girls she feels the liveliest concern, and the San Francisco Woman's Educational and Industrial union, which today counts a membership of 600 or 700, owes its existence to her energy.

At one time in her life it was Miss Knapp's intention to practice medicine, and to this end she attended the medical department of the University of Buffalo for three years.

When it is remembered that Miss Knapp is still young, barely thirty, I think it will be acknowledged that she is indeed a remarkable woman. She is an ardent advocate of a business life for girls and a strong believer in female suffrage and the equality of the sexes. It is probable that in the near future she will publish a little book especially for business girls. ANNA B. MASON.

Not at All Flattered. "May I ask if that was your maiden effort?" inquired the reporter at the woman's rights convention, edging his way around to the fair orator who had just sat down amid loud applause.

"It was not, sir," she replied, "I'm a widow."—Chicago Tribune.

What He Saw. Preacher (warmly)—And now, my hearers, look ahead, I beseech you. Look ahead, and what do you see?

Bronson (from the rear)—A boy flirting with an old maid, two sunbonnets and a vestryman asleep.—Harper's Bazar.

An Expert. He (putting on the ring)—So glad you like opals! So many girls are afraid of 'em.

She (suspiciously)—How do you know? He—Tried 'em.—Kate Field's Washington.

We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house. For sale by F. J. Wurzburg, druggist, 38 Monroe street.
